Miss Sadie Maude Moore Writes Home Of Leaving S. Korea

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week, Miss Nellie Lee received a letter from Miss Sadie Maude Moore, who was in a missionary when the North Korean Reds invaded South Korea. She called members of her family from Japan, saying that she was safe. Now comes this letter, which gives an intimate picture of what can do to people we know.
The names Miss Moore mentions in her letter are those of her friends with whom she worked and lived in Korea.)

Camp Hakata, Fukuoka, Japan, Sun., July 2, 1950.

My dear Family:
I don't know what you have heard, read and thought and feared and hoped about these days, but I do hope and trust you haven't been too alarmed and that the radiograms I've sent have reached you, assuring you that I am well and safe in Japan. This past week has been filled with varied experiences, there has been anxiety, and trying time, but many humorous experiences too, and through it all things have worked out so wonderfully so, we have been taken care of so graciously all along, and we feel that we have so much to be thankful for. Of course our great concern is for poor Korea, and what she is having to go through, and our dear friends there—they were so brave and fine in getting us out of danger, but we don't know what dangers they are encountering.

How can all of this happen in one week? Last Sunday (June 25) was quite a normal day for us in the quiet little country area of Won-jo. That morning one of the American advisors, who had been coming out to see Mary Jane quite often came by to see her and said he was off to Choonchun, in a hurry, and that "War" was breaking out on the border. We didn't take that too seriously for last Sunday there had been considerable fighting on the border, and it quieted down later. But about eight in the evening another of the American advisors came up and said the situation was really serious, and advised that we prepare to get out of Wonjo. Esther and Mary Jane began packing immediately. I couldn't get too excited about rushing out, so I said I wasn't packing till we got to further word, and I went to bed hoping to get some rest and be ready for what might happen on the morning. But we didn't wait till the morning. About 2:30 in the night, Olin came calling and said the American advisor was up again, saying the American Ambassador was preparing to evacuate all Americans from Korea, so we began packing immediately. We got our servants up and they helped us to get our things packed in Esther's station wagon, and came over and helped, some friends made American flags to put on our cars, we got to the bank and took out our money and left for servants and helpers, etc. We thought we would leave for Seoul about 10. But then just as we were nearly ready to leave the American Ambassador came up again saying a message had come saying for us to proceed by car to Fusan rather than going to Seoul—that meant a trip of nearly 300 miles by jeep rather than a trip of 90 miles. It also meant that I must drive rather than taking the chauffeur to Seoul, as I had planned. But there was no turning back at that stage—so we started out. The Stokes and Burkheders were getting ready too, but we got ready first, and they said for us to start ahead.
Esther and Mary Jane had their things packed in Esther's station wagon, and mine were in my jeep. We took turns driving, that is, Mary Jane helped me some and I helped Esther some. Of course I've driven a car for years in America, but I had driven this jeep hardly 10 miles in all and to start out on this trip on these roads would have been an "impossibility" under ordinary circumstances, but there was nothing to do but do it—and I did (with some help) and we got along wonderfully well. Esther had two flat tires on the road, but I didn't have any and she had spares, so didn't take long getting fixed up. The Stokes and Burkheders never did overtake us, they left late, and had to stop for the night, and they took things more leisurely. We didn't stop to eat, just drank some fruit juice and ate sandwiches along and kept going. We drove till about 11 Monday night (June 26), getting to Taegu and decided we had better get some sleep before going on. We went up to a Presbyterian compound there—all of the missionaries of their group had gone to Taegu for their mission meeting, and we didn't overtake them, made us wonder if they hadn't gotten further messages and hadn't come out at all. Also the fact that the Presbyterian mission seemed to be still in meeting in Taegu, made us feel that perhaps our flight was too hasty, so we went to bed in Taegu thinking it possible that we might go back home, rather than proceeding to Fusan the next A. M. (Tuesday, June 27).

But again we found that what I was thinking, for when we got in touch with the American Military Advisors in Taegu, they said they themselves were being ordered to evacuate, so of course we knew we would go on to Fusan. We were told that it would take us about 5 hours to get to Fusan, and leaving about 10:30 we should have gotten to Fusan about 3:30, but it wasn't that easy. Esther got terribly sick on the way, she had eaten a sandwich and drunk the morning coffee, and being so tired out and a highly nervous person anyway, she got a bad case of food poisoning, we stopped 8 or 10 times for her to vomit, and finally she got so sick and weak and faint, we had to put her in a Korean house and work with her. She got cold and clammy.
The Korean woman covered her with heavy covers, gave her hot water to drink, bathed her feet in hot water, etc., and I went scouting for a doctor. When I finally found a doctor she was feeling better, he said her pulse was steady, and would be able to go on. Then just as we were getting ready to start a jeep came along. Mr. Scherbach, an American we knew, who had been with the welfare Dept. of the American Advisory Group in Seoul, hopped out and said he would join our party. He had been told in Taegu that there were possible Communist invasions on the south coast about 30 miles from Fusan, and he knew we would be going very near that area. Anyway he urged us to hurry, and said he would drive my jeep and his chauffeur could go along in his jeep. So we started out again. Esther stretched out on top of baggage in the back of her station wagon and Mary Jane drove. After a few miles, we came upon this group of people by the road, Mr. Scher-bach feared it was Communist trouble, but on investigation we found that it was an American jeep overturned, and a Korean chauffeur hurt.
Esther hopped up and gave him first aid, found his pulse good, etc.
So told him to be quiet for a while and left him with the others in the jeep (we heard later that he was picked up and brought to Fusan, and was not seriously hurt).

As we got nearly to Fusan—we arrived about 6:30—we met Charlie. He told us that they had stopped to feed the baby many times, to eat, to rest, etc., but they had kept going all night and had reached Fusan about 5:30. He was on his way back out to get some of their luggage they had left by the roadside when the trailer they had been tied to one of their jeeps, broke down. That was a great reunion when we folks got together. We were directed out to the American Military compound near Fusan—there are about 60 American homes there, with big office and club houses, etc. We were given supper and told to wait for orders about sailing. At first we thought we would get to a boat right away, but it finally worked out that we didn't leave till about 9 the next morning. One of the American men asked us to stay in his house—his wife and children had been evacuated but the house with all the govt. furniture was there, and we put up a few extra cots, so our Wonjo group stayed with Mr. Spooner for the night. What to do with about cars and jeeps was a question.

Operation Vigilance

WITH THE post-election hue and cry quieting down we offer commendation to one organization in Statesboro and Bulloch County for service rendered before the election and during the balloting here—The Bulloch County League of Women Voters.

Before the election they were active in encouraging citizens to register. Members appeared on the radio, a sign was erected on the courthouse yard urging citizens to register. Open forums were held where issues were considered and studied.

Before the election the organization furnished this newspaper with information regarding the issues before the people and the standing of each local candidate on these issues.

On the day of the election members of the organization served as observers at the polling places who remained alert for violations of the rights of voters under the 1949 secret ballot law.

This sort of vigilance in behalf of our citizens deserves commendation. The people who keep this sort of vigilance over the rights of our citizens need the support of our communities.

The Bulloch County League of Women Voters is yet a small organization. We believe that the women folk of our county would do well to identify themselves with it.

Politicians respect, though some may not approve, the things for which the League stands.

The members are quick to let it be known that they support no candidate. They emphasize their objective to inform the citizens on issues, on their rights at the polls, and other things bearing on the government which govern our communities, state, and local.

For Fairer Representation

"WE would like to see a system of electing our city councilmen on a basis that all sections of the city be given representation. Our present council consists of two councilmen living across the street from each other on one street; two other councilmen living across the street from each other on another street, in the same section of the city, and another councilman living in the same general section with the first four. This leaves the west and east, and north sections of the city with no personal representation on the city council."

This paragraph appeared in our "We'll Scream and Tear Out Our Hair" editorial appearing in the first issue of the Herald in 1950.

With the mid-year point passed we still think it a good idea to divide our city up into "wards" or "districts" with the people in each division electing its representatives on the city council.

We believe there would be a stimulation in the interest in our city elections under a "ward" or "district" system with the citizens of each "ward" supporting the candidates of their choice to represent them.

In the last election only 87 of the 1,100 registered voters took time and effort to go to the polls and vote, though the candidates in that election were unopposed. But even at best only a disquieting percentage of our citizens vote in our city elections.

We believe that such a system would result in a more consistent growth of our community.

Think upon it.

It's Your Library

LIKE SO MANY of the things which are designed for the good of the community, one is hardly aware of them, they fill their place so efficiently.

The Bulloch County Library is one such service.

According to a recently released report of the library its service has extended throughout the county and its circulation has grown from 34,009 in 1943 to 91,319 in 1950.

The new building is filling a great need, serving as the meeting place for many groups. The Garden and Library Committees of the Statesboro Woman's Club, the Junior Woman's Club, The Business and Professional Woman's Club, the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the League of Women Voters, the Red Cross, all have used the library as their meeting place.

The Camellia Show was held in the library.

The State Department of Education held a training institute in the library for non-professional librarians for this district.

Two parties for children were held in the library.

These organizations which are using the library are expressing their appreciation for it. The Woman's Club Garden Committee contributed the shrubbery and the landscaping of the library grounds. They also gave vases and a valuable book on camellias, a subscription to the Book of the Month Club, The Business and Professional Woman's Club placed the bronze letters over the entrance to the building, the American Association of University Women contributed the clock and a table. The Woodmen of the World and Mrs. Hatfield Powell and Mrs. Ethel Floyd contributed the oil painting of the old walnut tree.

The Library's Bookmobile is performing a great service carrying the library to all areas of Bulloch and Bryan Counties.

We commend Miss Isabel Sorrier, the librarian, her assistants, Miss Nan Edity Jones, Mrs. Helen Legette, and Mrs. Brooks Rushing, the Bookmobile librarian.

We commend the library board on its excellent administration of the library. We commend the library to the people who own it. . . the citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

Things Happen Too Fast

WE would comment on possibilities of the President calling to active duty the National Guard and the Reserve.

We would comment on the draft of young men between the ages of 19 and 25.

We would comment on the progress of the war in South Korea.

But in times like these things happen fast.

This is being written on Friday before it will appear today—almost a week ago—and what we now write may be completely outdated when it appears published.

To illustrate—In our last week's Herald we carried a news story the lead of which read: "Bulloch countians of draft age, 19 through 25, in non-essential occupations, who prefer National Guard Service to 21 months in the regular army, may enlist in the local National Guard unit."

We had written an editorial for use in this issue suggesting that to join the local National Guard would be an excellent idea.

Then—boom—comes the news that there is every possibility that the National Guard might be called up for active duty. For it to have been published would have made us look pretty silly—and a lot of the youth of this community would have thought we crossed them up.

So our editorials must be on things looked at through the big end of a telescope.

Verse For This Week—

BELIEV'ST thou in eternal things?

Thou knowest, in thy inmost heart,

Thou art not clay; thy soul hath wings,

And what thou seest is but part.

Make this thy med'ine for the smart

Of everyday's distress; be dumb,

In each new loss thou truly art

Tasking the power of things that come.

—T. W. Parsons.

A FEW GO TO CHURCH

WHEN Mr. L. L. Moore, the sewing machine man and philosopher, wants to see someone he stations himself on the steps of the post office, for, according to him, "a few people go to church, a few people go to heaven, many people go to Hades, but EVERYBODY goes to the post office."

JUST SNIP AN BUZZ

It was the quietest we've ever known it to be in the barber shop on Friday morning of last week. All the chairs were filled. All the barbers were busy. All one could hear was the snip, snip, snip of the scissors and the buzz, buzz, buzz of the clippers. Nary a laugh, nary a tall tale, nary a fish story, nary a ball game comment—just snip, snip, snip and buzz, buzz, buzz. Elder Virgil Akin, pastor of the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church, was in one chair having his hair trimmed.

FOR PEACE AND QUIET

For a session of real peace and quiet in these times of hourly crises visit the Bulloch County Library.

DON'T TAKE A VACATION

Don't take a vacation—it's not worth it, if you've got a lawn on your yard and flowers in the border. We took a ten-day holiday and have been spending every afternoon, 6 to 8, since we got back trying to catch up on the growing grass and weeds. We now understand why the farmer can't take time off for the weeds and grass would ruin him.

WE'RE SUCKERS

We're a sucker for flower catalogs, flower magazines. Sitting with one in our hand, we look at all the lovely illustrations—and we can't understand it at all, for we are as color blind as a bat, but we just can't wait to get an order in the mails. We visualize our back border, lovely, in orderly arrangements of iris, lilies, snapdragons, phlox, and all the other pretty flowers. And experience tells us that we'll end up with bugs eating up the leaves, rot, and grass crowding out the plants that survive. But we refuse to profit by experience and go down under the spell of the wonderful results promised in all the catalogs and magazines.

WE DON'T DARE TRY IT

Nearly every morning when we come to work there is that soft drink truck—some mornings two soft drink trucks—parked on the yellow curb with its engine extending out into the pedestrian lane and making it impossible for the traffic to move if a citizen has correctly parked his car on the other side of the street. We don't get it. If we were to park our car on the identical spot for the same length of time there'd be the law with a ticket for us, sure as shooting. But the law is never around "bout that time when the soft drink truck is there.

By Jane

Come July heat and the auctioneers' chant

The race is on for that Queen of your choice

Enter into the fun and frolic, let everybody rejoice.

There'll be music and street dancing all for free

On July twenty-fourth we'll see at the Tobacco Jubilee.

It was a joint celebration of birthdays for Dr. Curtis Lane and Mrs. Roy Hitt. They're neighbors up on North Main, so Billie and Roy got their heads together and came up with a surprise. They all went out to supper at the Tobacco Trail on the evening of the tenth and after supper a lovely decorated birthday cake was brought in bearing twenty-one candles. At that time of the evening it was Lia's birthday. The party held together until the clock struck twelve and then it was Curtis' birthday. Curtis is rather proud of the two-aster luggage he received, but he thinks he'll soon be packing up "Anchors Aweigh."

We were held up at the theater entrance—not with a gun—even though we were going to see "Annie Get Your Gun"—or as Marla Ann Shesley had recommended, "Wannasee Annie Ghit your Ghun." We were held up by the sparkle of a diamond on third finger left hand by the little blonde at the door. We let "Annie" wait while we looked at a picture she had in her billfold instead of her "private file." He's a Corporal stationed at Orlando, Fla.

A card from Mary Jon Johnston shows that she is in Poughkeepsie, telling us Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schubert. Johnny tells us that her guests take her out every evening to simply out of this world places and that during the week end they would go by boat down the Hudson for the big, big city. There they would go to night clubs, visit radio city and do all the things a little girl from a little town would like that is a big girl in a big city.

LITTLE BOY LOST—Jim Tillman says the grown folks got lost. He knew where he was all the time. Mrs. Walter Groover and her daughter, Betty and Bob Snyder and Jim had come in from Tybee and at lunch time they went into Morrison's. The two women, Edith Mae and Frances, went into the ladies' lounge and Jim was parked just outside the door with the strict admonition not to budge an inch until they came out. Eventually they did come out but no sign was there of five-year-old Jim. No sir, Jim had vanished completely. Unstated, down stairs, all around the town they searched, they were excited. They got panicky. Finally retracing their steps they were back in the cafeteria. Frances quite pale, pointed a shaking finger and said to Edith Mae: "Look over there, there's our boy!" There sat Jim at a table for four. He was eating deviled crab. Arranged around him were three glorified desserts and a long, cold green drink. Frances gasped, "Jim, what do you mean anyhow?"

He answered matter of factly, "Well, I reckoned I was hungry." Frances wasn't through. Such things must not be taken lightly. He must be made to see the seriousness of the situation. She was very stern. "Jim, how would you have paid for all this food?" Promptly came the reply, "I reckon I'd a washed the dishes." We wonder what Frances said to that.

We ran into a group of girls all chatting a mile a minute. We stung out Lill Brady, "Any news?" "Don't know a thing," she replied. One of the other girls said, "Why don't you tell her how you put 4,200 miles on your mother's car in two weeks?" Lill had gone out for a ride and suddenly found herself visiting Jackie Upshaw and Betty Chisholm. Next

As ever, Jane.

Saturday In Town

("Topic of the Times" in The New York Times)

There may still be those around who remember how the chores on the farm were all done by noon on Saturday, how the family piled in to the wagon or perhaps the old Model T hearse off to town, along with every other farm family in the district. That Saturday in town still continues as a farm custom, according to a friend of ours who has just made a one-family, one-farm survey. The basic pattern may be the same as back in 1910, but no 1910 farmer would recognize the details.

The club asks the support and cooperation of local citizens in its undertaking.

However, research work being carried on at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton will also be a part of the program and a tour of this work will be made during the short course.

The following members are looking forward to the short course: Mrs. Dean Anderson, Mrs. H. D. Anderson, Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Mrs. Cliff Bradley, Mrs. Percy Bland, Mrs. Aubert Brannen, Mrs. Jim Brannen, Mrs. Julian Brannen, Mrs. James P. Collins, Mrs. Inman Mix, The Bar B Riders, and Tops in Pops.

W. H. Smith Jr. To Serve On A D C Short Course

W. H. Smith Jr. has been asked to serve on the program at the annual swine short course at Abraham Baldwin College, Tifton.

The short course will be held August 8 and 9. Dean T. M. Cordeiro asked Mr. Smith to discuss methods used on his farm from a practical point of view. The program is generally filled with specialists in various fields of livestock production and disease work. Mr. Smith is doing a good job of raising hogs and Dean Cordeiro wants this practical story to go along with the technical phases to be discussed.

However, research work being carried on at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton will also be a part of the program and a tour of this work will be made during the short course.

The formation of the above club is an outgrowth of the garden committee of the Statesboro Woman's Club, which has done some outstanding work in the past two years.

The following members are looking forward to the short course: Mrs. Dean Anderson, Mrs. H. D. Anderson, Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Mrs. Cliff Bradley, Mrs. Percy Bland, Mrs. Aubert Brannen, Mrs. Jim Brannen, Mrs. Julian Brannen, Mrs. James P. Collins, Mrs. Inman Mix, The Bar B Riders, and Tops in Pops.

at first there seemed a possibility of getting them on the boat, but then they said no, later we found that 3 Presby. missionaries were there, but they were not planning to evacuate—at least for the present—and we offered to let them have our jeep, they were pleased and we were delighted. Esther left her station wagon with the American Military men, but Olin, Charlie and I gave ours over to Mr. Ned Adams, Mrs. Kinsler and Mr. Campbell. Of course they might not be able to keep them but they may, and we felt much better to leave them in their hands.

Most of our baggage was put on our boat. The Jesse Lykes—Mon. evening and we went on board about 9 Tues. a. m. June 27. There were about 90 of us evacuees on this freighter which has accommodations for 12 passengers besides crew. Of course that meant that we were crowded, but the ship people did everything they could to make us comfortable and took wonderful care of us—the old captain was so jolly and fine. All of the women had berths or cots and I spent most of the day in bed. I was a little seasick and too I was tired out, so the bed felt good. We got across the Korean straits in about or less than 10 hours, but it was decided that we would stay on the boat that night and not land until morning. Our boat pulled into Fukuoka port and they had things so well organized to receive us that we felt we had a Royal welcome to Japan. American Soldiers got on the boat and there was one soldier to go with each of us, help us with our baggage and direct us. They set up a reception center in a big warehouse, we were given coffee (not me of course) and doughnuts, we registered, the Red Cross gave us towels, toothbrushes, etc., and sent one form radio gram to U. S. A. for us free. I had sent one to M. L. (Miss Moore's sister, Mary Lou Dadsman, of Jefferson) from our boat but decided since this one was free, I'd send another to Carrol (Dr. Carrol Moore). Then buses were waiting to bring us out to Camp Hakata. We got here in time for dinner. Here again we found a grand welcome. This is a big camp, and since many of the soldiers stationed here are out on maneuvers in another section of Japan, their barracks were vacated and we came right in. We were assigned to a room in room 1. There are 20 or more beds in this room, it's a large airy room, and bath facilities are near, and we are quite comfortable here, and after a day or two of rest I am feeling just fine.

Of course we had wondered all along about our missionaries in Songo, and especially about the Songo folks—Songo is right on the 38th line and we feared the missionaries there hadn't been able to get out. And that is just the story we heard when we got here. All the Songo folks got out, most of the women and children left on a boat from Inchon Monday afternoon. They left on the freighter about like the one we were on, but instead of one night on the boat they had two nights and instead of one baby (Carrol Anne was the only baby in our party) they had 40 or more and gave them to the Songo mission-aries who could reach port. Our men from Seoul were flown out here and we hear that they are up about Osaka. We found a large group of our women missionaries here when we arrived, and we had a little get together right after lunch on Thursday. Most of them were shipped out of here to Beppu that morning.

We had asked that our missionary group be sent out together, but with us coming in at different times it hasn't been easy to get plans worked out yet. We have been on the alert to go from here several times, for we were told definitely that we would not stay here long, but as yet, we are here, and this morning we were told that we will have time to go to church, so we won't leave before side keep all of our mission group together until we decide on further moves. As I said, a few Presby. missionaries did stay in Korea, but most are out. We had a wire from our Mission Board saying that they would like for us to stay in Japan for the summer, with the hope that things will clear up so we can return to Korea. So that is the general feeling we have about the situation at the present. However, some of us feel that we would rather go on to America for the summer, even if at our own expense. I am anxious to get back to Korea at the very earliest possible moment, but it doesn't seem likely that we will be going back within a few months anyway, and to stay around here in these times, can't be a very refreshing and restful vacation, so I would be in favor of going home to see you all and have a good time and feel really fit and fine to get back to Korea as soon as the way opens up. I am willing to stay and wait, if it seems wise, so I'm not making any decisions yet. You may see me or you may not!

As I said our missionary group got together a little while the first day we were here, we met in a room over at a chapel here on the post. It is a lovely chapel. After our meeting, we went into the chapel, Mary Jane played the electric organ, and we sang for quiet and meditation. The lovely pastor, the Good Shepherd, in the front is such a beautiful one, and to sit in the quiet and beauty of that chapel and hear those hymns that mean so much to us anyway, gave us real strength and courage. I was back over there again the next a. m. for a little while, and this morning the service with communion was very lovely and meaningful.

This is a large camp of American soldiers, about 12,000 I think. Since we have been here, these boys have been getting letters to go to Korea for combat duty, so large groups of them have gone already and more will go soon. Here we are, getting out of danger, and these young American boys going over to fight for us. We hated to leave, we didn't like to appear to be running away from duty, or from our dear faithful Korean friends, but they all insisted that we go—our presence there might work a hardship on them. And

Ranger Force at Peak

Our Wildlife Ranger force is at a peak of strength, numerically speaking. There are five chiefs and 115 Rangers, more men in the field than at any time in Georgia's history. Less than 25 years ago five men covered the entire state on wildlife patrol duty.

The success or failure of the Wildlife Ranger is solely dependent on public sentiment. If the people of Georgia, the courts, judges and sportsmen clubs are not behind these men 100 per cent they might as well take up knitting. Ten Rangers per county could not do the job if the public does not approve and take time to see that justice is done.

It costs the license buyer money to have game and fish protected from rascals who will go to any extreme to blast our wildlife resources out of existence. In some courts, the fines are ridiculously low. In jury trials on wildlife violations, the guilty often have been given a clean bill although the jury was convinced of guilt.

Violators Deal in Destruction

How can any man advocate dynamiting or poisoning our fishing waters? Here a selfish few destroy the rights of thousands for decent fishing. Fish in our waters belong to no individual. These fish belong to the people—all of the people—including your sons and daughters. Fishing is one of the few sports where the poor and the rich compete on an even basis. When the violator engages in wanton destruction, he commits a crime against you—the public. Your children pay the bill for this greed.

The Wildlife Ranger's job is simply to see that everybody gets a fair opportunity at his favorite outdoor sport. He deserves and must have YOUR support if his fishing and hunting is to survive. It isn't the sportsman who engages in illegal fishing and hunting operations. Captain Edie Rickenbacker says "The game and fish violator is a thief, and should be treated as such."

Some have the impression that the Wildlife Ranger has the softest job on record. Let's consider that angle—several Rangers have lost their lives performing their duties. Two soldiers and 115 Rangers were shot down in cold blood just a few years ago in the Okefenokee Swamp. One of them getting a full load of buckshot that tore away part of his head. Another Ranger was murdered at King's Ferry. The next time a jury feels inclined to smile on a game law violator—they might remember these men. I'm sure no one of them died smiling at a blast from a shot gun.

One Ranger in South Georgia arrested two violators. He entered a boat with these men to cross a river. In the middle of the river, the violators capsize the boat in an effort to drown the Ranger, who could not swim. The Ranger, fortunately, grabbed the boat and saved his life. Later he caught the men and took them to court. The men paid a small fine—that Ranger came dangerously near paying with his life.

Pardon Me—My Mistake

Recently in South Georgia a sportsman started paddling up a river on what was to be a pleasant fishing trip. Now—consider this—this man could have been you. Suddenly from the bank a shotgun roared and this man crumpled up in the boat. Doctors picked slugs out of him for hours. The man who fired the shot was caught and taken to court. He pleaded guilty to the crime, saying "Gee—it's all a gizzard to me. I'm sorry. I thought he was a Wildlife Ranger." Suppose that man was your father or brother whose blood was spilled—how would you feel about it?

One Ranger trailed a group of men into the woods having been tipped off that these men were preparing to net fish. The Ranger parked his car. The men discovered they were being followed. They doubled back and set the Ranger's car on fire. The Chief of Rangers at Albany recently had the top of his car smashed, slashed and damaged beyond repair. Nothing gives a better picture of the character of a law violator.

One Georgia violator certainly will confine his illegal activities to his home state in the future. He recently went into Florida, dynamited a stream and was caught. The judge threw the book at him. He was fined $700 and given a suspended sentence. The judge warned: "If this happens again the fine will be doubled." A deputy sheriff turned out to be one of our top violators of shad regulations. It's time we took off our kid gloves.

Tobacco Farmers

We are starting our TWENTY-THIRD season in the warehouse business in Statesboro. During this time we have seen Statesboro grow from one of the smallest to the LARGEST TOBACCO MARKET in the State of Georgia. Cobb & Foxhall are proud to have done our part in the building up of this market and we hope that our dealings with the tobacco farmers in this territory has been such as to merit their confidence.

COBB & FOXHALL

will again operate their five warehouses with four hours and fifteen minutes selling time each day. We have FIRST SALE at 9 A.M. on Opening Day, MONDAY, JULY 24. Our sale the next day starts at 10:45 A.M., and this schedule will run throughout the season with sales at 9 A.M. and the next day at 10:45 A.M.

We are now open for receiving tobacco and will keep our houses open day and night until the crop is sold. Wait until your tobacco is fully ripe before barning—this market will remain open until the tobacco in this territory is sold if it takes six weeks to do it.

There will be no rush and very few blocked sales his season as we have had in the past. We can sell your tobacco promptly this year without having it lay on the floor several days. Pack your tobacco in as large piles as possible up to 300 pounds and have the grade run uniform throughout the pile.

For the TOP OF THE MARKET on every pile, drive straight to the OLD RELIABLE—

Miss Dorothy Jane Hodges Becomes Bride Of Mr. Edward Hodges Saturday

On Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock Miss Dorothy Jane Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade C. Hodges, became the bride of Edward Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Rushing, in a lovely home ceremony with the Rev. John Lough, pastor of the First Methodist Church, reading the marriage laws in the presence of the families and close friends of the couple.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed before the huge open fireplace in the living room. The fire place was decorated with arrangements of gladioli, white asters, and Coontie palm leaves extending the entire length of the mantel. On each side of the fireplace were seven-branched candelabra holding white candles. Completing the altar design were Tiffany vases of white gladioli and Oregon ferns.

Mrs. Roger Holland played the wedding music and Dr. Roger Holland Jr., sang "Beau and I Love You Truly." The bride's only attendant, Miss Dorothy Jane Hodges, wore pink net over satin. A plaited bandeau of the net was used as a headpiece. She wore matching mitts and carried an old fashioned nosegay of pink, aqua, and white carnations with green satin streamers.

T. E. Rushing served as his son's best man. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, W. C. Hodges Jr., was lovely in white bridal satin and lace. The fitted satin bodice was attached to a deep yoke of nylon lace and the fitted sleeves were of lace. The full satin skirt flared in the back to form a graceful train. Her veil of fingertip illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a string of pearls and she carried a bouquet of fleur de lys and white orchids with a white orchid with a yellow throat.

The bride's mother wore light blue chiffon. The groom's mother wore pastel yellow voile. Both wore corsages of purple orchids. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table, overlaid with a white linen cutwork cloth, had for a centerpiece a three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully embossed with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, and placed on a reflector. Four-branched candelabra were placed at each end of the table with graceful plumosa fern completing the bridal motif of white and green. White poinsettia chrysanthemums, white gladioli, and dahlias were artistically arranged throughout the home.

Mrs. Jack Tillman and Miss Lois Stockdale served punch from an heirloom china bowl. Others serving were Mrs. Eugene Brodgon of Lyons, Mrs. Cliff Pittman of Hampton, Va., sisters of the bride; Mrs. Julian Hodges, Miss Maxine Foy, and Miss Trudie Pittman of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Rushing left on their wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the bride traveling in a praline suit of rayon wool. She wore a brown cloche. Other accessories were brown. She wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet. The couple will make their home in Statesboro, where the groom is associated with his father in business.

Parasites Cause Livestock Diseases Farm Bureaus Told By Specialist

Many of the livestock diseases found in Bulloch county today are caused by parasites, Frank E. Dooley, livestock disease specialist from Ft. Worth, Texas, told the members of the Ogeechee, Warnock and Sinkhole Farm Bureau last week.

In the case of dogs, worms probably cause more losses than any disease or parasite, Mr. Dooley stated. Many of the diseases that cause trouble with dogs can be traced back to worms either directly or indirectly. Mr. Dooley urged that every livestock farmer follow a good parasite control program, and recommended phenothiazine as the best all around worm material on the market today.

Phenothiazine is not new to Bulloch county farmers, even though many of them do not use as much of it as they should. It is put up and sold under many trade names by several companies, but the dose recommendations are the same on all mixtures. Mr. Dooley urged the local livestock men to feed phenothiazine to their dogs at 8 to 12 weeks of age and repeat the

Local National Guard Unit Alerted For Mobilization; Final Orders Due Today

119 Officers and Elected Men Of Guard On 'Stand-By' Orders

Lt. Col. Henry J. Ellis, commanding officers of the local unit of the National Guard, announced this week that he received final orders to alert his command to be ordered into active Federal military service on August 13. He stated final orders are expected today (Thursday).

The local National Guard consists of the 101st Antiaircraft Artillery Gun Battalion, Headquarters, Headquarters Battery, and Battery "A".

Col. Ellis stated that all National Guardsmen on an inactive status will be called back, and those whose enlistments will expire soon will be retained.

He went on to say that he had been authorized to enlist new men to bring the unit up to their full strength, and added that men interested might see Capt. Sheldel Kennan or go to the armory at the airport where someone is on duty at all times.

The National Guard was last mobilized on November 5, 1940, and conducted field work in the Pacific area. Captain B. A. (Snag) Johnson was commanding officer at the time of mobilization for World War II. The group went from here to Camp Stewart, then to San Francisco, Calif., for defense duty.

When they went overseas they were stationed at New Zealand, New Caledonia, then to Guadalcanal on January 15, 1943, after the Marines hit the island in August, 1941. They were the first Army AAA unit to see action in the Pacific.

They also saw action on New Guinea, and part of the unit saw action on Bougainville in the British Solomon Islands.

The National Guard unit here is one of the oldest in the state. It began as a Headquarters Detachment in 1928. Then in 1928 it was changed to Headquarters and Battery "A". Then in October, 1939, it was converted to Battery "C" of the 214th Coast Artillery.

During the war it was the 24th and 23rd-year-old group. She said that if they pass their physical examination they may expect to be called within 21 to 28 days for induction into the armed forces. The group included white and Negro men. Mrs. Ellis stated there is no discrimination in calling up the young men. "It's just a matter of who is eligible," she said.

She went on to say that a number of young men in lower age groups, down to 19 years of age, received notices to report to a local doctor for a physical examination. "These notices actually mean 'It's just a matter of who is eligible,'" she said, "for this examination is simply to determine if the men are in good enough physical condition to be placed on the local draft board's list of eligible men."

Mrs. Ellis explained that Bulloch county's young men will be called according to age groups, beginning with 25 years, down to 19 years.

She said that the U. S. Army Force, son of A. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, is a member of the committee which has recommended that the College of Agriculture be divorced from the University System. The GBF executive was the principal speaker at the meeting here.

In a sharp worded resolution presented by W. H. Smith Jr., of Statesboro, member of the state Farm Bureau board of directors, the First District groups said such action indicates "that there is not a sincere effort being made to the benefit of higher agriculture education, research, and the Extension Service activities."

Sue Simmons Is Selected Tobacco Festival Queen

By MIKE McDUGALD

More than 300 citizens, tobacco buyers, growers, and warehousemen gathered in the streets of downtown Statesboro Monday night to celebrate the opening of the 1950 bright-leaf tobacco season in Georgia's largest market.

Miss Sue Simmons, 17, was crowned queen of the Tobacco Festival and reigned over a night of pageantry, dancing, and festivities. She and her runners-up, Miss Jean Bazemore and Miss Nell Bowen, were selected from 26 girls wearing many-colored evening dresses.

The entire length of Seibald street was roped off for dancing, and a bandstand was constructed in the center. The crowd was so large that little room was left for dancing and it was not until after the beauty review that square-dancers formed their circles. The streets were covered with corn and the three winners received a watch, Miss Bazemore was awarded a table-model radio and Miss Bowen received a travel iron. Each of the three winners received a corsage and a complete beauty treatment gift certificate.

Bob Thompson served as master of ceremonies and the judges for the beauty review were Dan Lovett of Atlanta; George Caldwell, of Goldsboro, N.C.; and Tom Saltwater, of Durham, N.C.

The entire festival was termed such a success that plans are already being formulated for a bigger and better affair next year.

Smith Jr., of Statesboro, member of the state Farm Bureau board of directors, the First District groups said such action indicates "that there is not a sincere effort being made to the benefit of higher agriculture education, research, and the Extension Service activities."

Congressman Preston Urges Total Mobilization Of Manpower, Economy

With the United Nations make our purposes known to the people of Korea, and other nations of the area," Representative Preston said.

The committee, continuing its hearings Monday, undoubtedly will recommend to Congress that the nation step in with a stronger voice broadcast to the critical areas—by State department lingo "the crucial periphery."

Mr. Preston, himself a veteran of combat in the European theater in World War II, said he is ready to fight for necessary war spending and to urge total mobilization of the nation's economy as well as its warpower.

"I want to see us cut domestic spending to a serious degree in order to have the money to fight the war and at the same time to balance the budget," he said.

619,322 Pounds Of Tobacco Sold On Opening Day On Statesboro Market

A total of 619,322 pounds of tobacco were sold on the Statesboro tobacco market on opening day on Monday of this week for $261,964.79, to average $42.30 per hundred pounds.

This year's opening day sales were 1949's opening day sales, when 678,406 pounds sold for $296,641 to average $44 per hundred. On opening day in 1948 596,358 pounds were sold for $294,694 to average $49.41 per hundred.

Tuesday's sales fell to 436,282 pounds for $161,036.27, to average $36.91. Last year's second day's sales came to 735,003 pounds for $317,310, to average $43.17.

Yesterday's figures were incomplete when The Herald went to press last night, but an estimate indicates that more than 300,000 pounds will be sold for about $111,000, averaging close to $37.00.

At the opening day's sales there were many baskets of tobacco which brought 67 cents a pound. According to a release by the United States Department of Agriculture, the general quality of the tobacco, as a whole, showed an improvement over last year. Offerings were thinner-bodied and of better color than on early sales last season.

In a statement to the tobacco growers of this section, warehousemen make it plain that the market here will remain open until all the crop is sold. They urge tobacco growers not to pick their tobacco green. "There is no need to hurry," they say. They also point out that there are a lot of worms in the late crop and urge growers to keep them out of the crop. "There is no congestion on the market here," warehousemen say. "A grower can bring his tobacco to us today or tonight and it'll be sold tomorrow," they said.

Miss Isabel Sorrier, librarian for the Regional Library serving Bulloch and Bryan counties, announces that the library's new Bookmobile is expected here this week and will be ready for service by August 1.

The Bookmobile is the newest and most modern type of library equipment. The chassis is by Ford and the body is built by Vanette, a company specializing in construction of small traveling libraries. It is made to standards approved by the state and national library associations and is streamlined in appearance.

The new Bookmobile is designed for the comfort of both the personnel and readers. It is 70 inches high inside, so that readers can comfortably stand and select books. It is insulated throughout and is undercoated to minimize dust leakage. The shelves have three-inch tilt with lock and supports to keep the books from sliding about, thus reducing wear and tear on them.

Four thousand dollars is furnished by the State Department of Education for the purchase of books and materials to be used for rural library service in this area.

The Bookmobile operates five days a week and visits 12 schools, five depositories, eight home demonstration clubs and 150 homes. During the past year, 58,470 books were circulated by the Bookmobile alone.
